SALTILLO

Saltillo is currently considered one of the top cities to live in the country. In addition to being the capital of Coahuila, it's one of the safest cities in Mexico. Saltillo is a city that possesses history, centuries-old traditions, and is rich in culture. It is also one of the oldest cities in northeastern Mexico and southern Texas and its cultural richness is reflected in its historic downtown area that displays colonial architecture, plazas, alleys, monuments, traditions, and its rich history stretching centuries to the past.

Currently Saltillo and its metropolitan area have a little above one million inhabitants. It is a national and international benchmark for the automotive industry thanks to the work of its always dynamic and enterprising people. It's one of the capitals with the greatest economic development and it´s recognized for public service availability, government management, honesty, and transparency.

WELCOME

Welcome to Saltillo!
Saltillo is a city with mountain views and great weather. It is the oldest city in northeastern Mexico and is known as the city of wine and dinosaurs.
Visit us with full confidence that you'll be safe here to enjoy your vacation, whether with family, friends, or your partner.
For us Saltillo locals, it's a pleasure to welcome you and share who we are and what we have with you.
Next, we will share some reasons for visiting us; and if you're already here, you simply can't miss out on each of the wonderful things we've listed.

BEST REASONS TO VISIT SALTILLO

HISTORICAL RELEVANCE

Saltillo is the oldest city in northeastern Mexico and southern Texas.

The Villa of Santiago of Saltillo was founded around 1573 and served as a gateway for the founding of towns and villas towards the north of Mexico and the United States. In Saltillo, you'll find traces of history that shaped northeastern Mexico.

Its downtown area is rich in history and architecture.

Saltillo's historical wealth is reflected in its traditions and beautiful downtown. You'll find buildings of great importance such as the Cathedral of Santiago, considered one of the tallest and most beautiful in the country; and a downtown that preserves colonial, neoclassical, and modern architecture.

MUSEUMS

Saltillo takes pride in its rich cultural heritage and offers visitors countless opportunities to learn about the region's history, art, and traditions. The city is home to over 20 museums, most of them located downtown and housed in architectural gems.

GASTRONOMY

Saltillo is a city for food lovers. Its cuisine features fresh meats, fine cuts, goat (cabrito), and veal. Flour tortillas, machaca, sábanas norteñas (northern-style beef sheets), discada (mixed meats), chorizo, and cheeses are just some of the things you can find on Saltillo's dinner tables. The famous traditional pulque bread is also a beloved part of the city's rich culinary heritage.

WINE TOURISM

In recent years, Coahuila has become a premier destination for wine and vineyard tourism. Saltillo, the state capital located in the southeastern region, is surrounded by top-tier vineyards and wineries. This makes Saltillo the perfect starting point for wine tourism: vineyard tours, wine tastings, and learning all about wine culture. Throughout the year, the city also hosts important regional wine festivals.

With the “Vinos y Dinos” (Wine and Dinos) route, you’ll enjoy a unique experience that fuses the region’s rich paleontological legacy with its wine tradition. Taste fine wine while learning about the fascinating paleontological discoveries made in our lands.

WEATHER

Saltillo is known for its pleasant weather. The climate is mild, semi-arid, and features a unique combination of moderate temperatures throughout most of the year: low humidity, scarce rainfall, and abundant sunshine. The average annual temperature ranges between 18°C and 20°C (64°F to 68°F), making it ideal for outdoor activities. The seasons are clearly defined, so you can truly enjoy spring, summer, autumn, and winter.

PALEONTOLOGICAL RICHNESS

Saltillo is the capital of Coahuila, a state officially recognized as the “Land of dinosaurs” due to the significant number of paleontological discoveries in its territory. Saltillo is home to the Museo del Desierto (Desert Museum), a major tourist attraction where you can admire dinosaur fossils from the Cretaceous period. Saltillo’s surrounding areas also feature sites with fascinating dinosaurs and marine life discoveries dating back over 60 million years.

NATURE

Saltillo is surrounded by mountains, and their proximity is a great advantage. Within just a 15-minute drive, you can immerse yourself in semi-desert forests and pine woodlands.
The nearby Sierra de Zapalinamé, Saltillo’s main green area and protected zone, offers many opportunities for ecotourism, and you can explore places like the San Lorenzo Canyon, where you can enjoy guided hikes, bird watching, stargazing, and adventure tourism activities such as rock climbing, spelunking, and rappelling.

HOW TO GET TO SALTILLO?

You can get to Saltillo by land. Saltillo is in the northern part of the country, in the southeastern region of the state. Saltillo's road infrastructure allows it to stay connected with the rest of the country and the southern United States, having access to the main free and toll roads. The city is connected by Federal Highway 57, which runs through most of the country going from south to north, as well as Highway 40, which crosses the country from east to west.

SALTILLO'S CULTURE

Saltillo's locals come from a mixed heritage, formed by the blending of Spanish, Tlaxcaltec, and Guachichil peoples.

Before it was colonized, the region was inhabited by native groups known as the Guachichil, who, with the arrival of Spanish colonizers around 1573, retreated into the mountains and were eventually driven to extinction. Later, in 1591, the Tlaxcaltecs arrived, aiding the Spanish in strengthening the northern population and imbued the territory with their culture and ways of living.

We, the people of Saltillo, are the result of a cultural fusion from communities that were once divided in the past, now woven together into a rich and diverse tapestry that defines who we are and makes us unique.

Saltillo's sarape, pulque bread, cuisine, and other traditional elements constitute evidence of this cultural diversity that proudly represents Saltillo's people today.

TOURISTIC SITES

HISTORIC DOWNTOWN

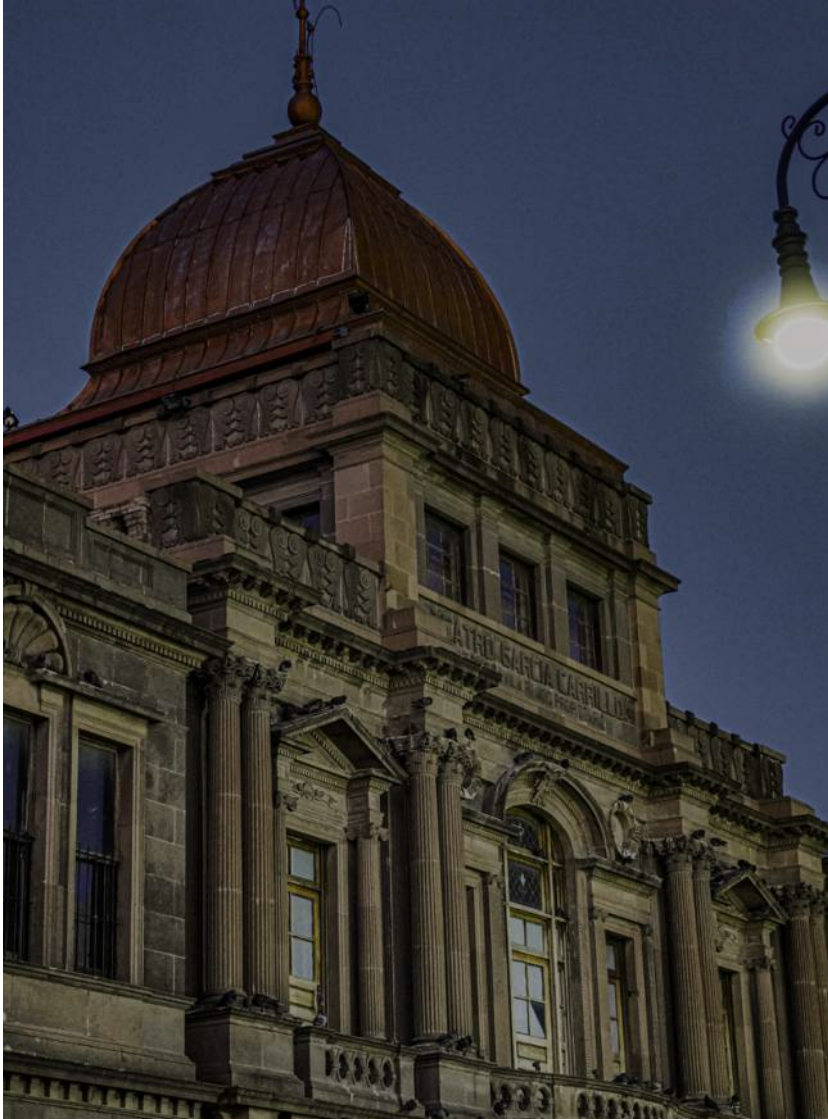

Saltillo's downtown is the city's tourist destination by excellence, here you'll find beautiful buildings with a mixture of colonial, neoclassical, and contemporary architecture. In downtown you'll also find a large portion of the city's gastronomic and entertainment offering. Restaurants, cafes, bars and nightclubs are found in this area.
Wander through the historic downtown and you'll discover charming places like plazas, alleyways, parks, and lots of museums!

MUSEUMS AND GALLERIES

Saltillo is home to over 22 museums and galleries that showcase the artistic and cultural city's essence. History, art, and natural history museums stand out.

Most of them are free! You can't miss visiting Saltillo's two most famous museums: Museo del Desierto (Desert Museum), and Museo de las Aves (Bird Museum).

CATEDRAL DE SANTIAGO

TEMPLES

You'll find the city's oldest temples downtown; they stand out for their beautiful architecture and history. Visit them!

CATEDRAL DE SANTIAGO

A true architectural gem dedicated to the Apostle Saint James the Greater, its construction began in 1745 as a parish church and, in 1891, it was established as the Cathedral of Saltillo. It blends various architectural styles, including Baroque and Churrigueresque. It is the most iconic building in Saltillo, with one of the tallest towers in Latin America. Inside, its altarpieces stand out, along with a valuable collection of 45 colonial-era oil paintings and the silver frontal on the altar of Saint Joseph — an 18th-century piece that was part of the renowned exhibition "Mexico: Splendors of Thirty Centuries", which toured the U.S. and Mexico for three years.

Hidalgo and Juárez, Downtown Area

SAN JUAN NEPOMUCENO

A Jesuit temple built in the 19th century. Its Neoclassical façade is marked by its unfinished towers and beautiful dome with stained-glass windows. Inside, it houses oil paintings by Father Gonzalo Carrasco, evangelical sculptures, and a mural depicting the life of Saint John.

Hidalgo Sur and Escobedo #512, Downtown Area

OJO DE AGUA

It was here, more than 400 years ago, that Saltillo was born. The church still retains its atrium in honor of the Ojo de Agua (Eye of Water), where the Villa of Saltillo was founded in 1577, along with its small spring. Devout locals come to worship Christ, while tourists visit for its architecture and historical value, as the Ojo de Agua neighborhood still preserves many aspects of colonial settlements.

Félix U. Gómez corner with Libertad, Ojo de Agua Neighborhood

SAN ESTEBAN

This temple, of great historical value, was built in 1592 with the founding of the town of San Esteban de la Nueva Tlaxcala, inhabited by the Tlaxcaltecs. Additionally, in 1847, during the Battle of La Angostura, it served as a hospital.

Victoria and Padre Flores, Downtowna Area

SANTUARIO DE GUADALUPE

Built in 1890 in Gothic style with quarry stone, this sanctuary stands out in the city. At that time, the sanctuary belonged to the town of San Esteban de la Nueva Tlaxcala. At the upper and central part of the structure, there is a clock, pointed arch windows, and buttresses, all characteristic elements of the Gothic style that arrived in Mexico after the reign of Emperor Maximilian.

Pulque is a typical Mexican Pulque is a typical Mexican beverage obtained from the fermentation of maguey water, in Mexico's pre-hispanic origins it was used as a sacred beverage. Beginning in the colonial era, pulque was used as a leavening agent for breadmaking, and the Tlaxcalans passed the tradition on to Saltillo. Since then, the pulque bread tradition has endured, the recipe was passed down from generation to generation, eventually falling into the hands of a few Saltillo families who jealously guard the recipe and continue to make the bread, which is even exported to other countries.
